

Core HR in the Cloud

SAP SuccessFactors

Many sources – a single truth

With a single HR system of record, you always have a clear picture of your entire workforce

Fragmented HR systems can prevent global companies from answering even basic questions about their employees – let alone manage a global workforce effectively. You need a Core HR system that provides a single source of truth, handles HR transactions flawlessly, and delivers true business impact with:

- Support of end-to-end talent management
 - Powerful workforce analytics and planning
 - Seamless integration with back-end systems
 - Employee engagement and collaboration

“...What successful companies understand is that core HR lays the foundation for not just compliance, but employee engagement and business success.”

Unprecedented decision support

Integrated workforce analytics for actionable insights today – and superior workforce planning tomorrow

Unprecedented decision support

- Reduce costs dramatically
- Ensure compliance
- Engage your entire workforce

Move beyond process automation to make the most of your people data – for decisions that grow your business.

Plus, analyze your people data together with any business data, such as financials.

Imagine if you could answer questions such as these:

“What’s our revenue per employee? Is it higher than our competitors? How does it vary across lines of business or geographies? How many dollars of operating profit are generated for every dollar invested in compensation and benefits? Is the ROI on human capital higher than the ROI on working capital, invested capital, or plant and equipment?”

With SAP SuccessFactors Employee Central, you can!

Unprecedented decision support

Reduce costs dramatically

Engage your entire workforce

Some aspects of supporting globalization are well established, such as translating content and supporting time zones, calendars, and currencies. However, keeping up with constantly changing local laws is much more challenging – most vendors just provide some tools and wish you luck. Employee Central automatically updates changes in regulations, making it easy to adapt to local business practices, legal requirements, and statutory reporting. For example, Employee Central Payroll is compliant with country-specific requirements and is managed by local experts.
